Glenbriar notes changes to market quotes and data

CALGARY, AB – October 17, 2008 — Glenbriar Technologies Inc. (CNQ: GTI) noted that CNQ has implemented a new trading platform effective October 17, 2008. At the outset, historical data has been removed from the CNQ site and will be replaced over time with data from subsequent trading. 52 week Hi-Lo trading prices have been manually updated. The display of the order book will be temporarily unavailable due to the new data feeds. CNQ will be replacing this display and upgrading the market information presentation in the final phase of the platform upgrade.

The new trading platform is X-Stream, used under licence from Nasdaq OMX. This new system adds new functionality to the CNQ listed market, such as anonymous broker, program trades, short exempt marker and specialty crosses. Glenbriar's trading symbol changed to GTI effective September 19, 2008 as part of the change. CNQ also revamped its fee schedule to make it even more cost effective for dealers.

Some online stock quote providers have adjusted their systems so that historical data and order book information are still available for CNQ stocks, including GTI.
