President's Message

Angel networks and associations have been popping up all over the country. We have run into them from BC to Newfoundland and virtually everywhere in between. Made up of local entrepreneurs, wealthy individuals and business service providers. They focus on mobilizing local capital and expertise. Their efforts accelerate capital formation and growth of emerging businesses and are a boon to a local economy as well as the individual enterprises. CNSX has engaged with several of them as we go out to spread the good news about how to reduce the burden of managing a public company by listing on our exchange.

The Ontario government has a program to fund start-up and operating expenses for angel groups that is administered by the National Angel Capital Organization. This is an effective way to make use of existing expertise in an NGO with a track record rather than create new positions in the government's own bureaucracy. I recently visited one of these groups: the Golden Triangle Angelnet (Waterloo-Cambridge-Guelph) which started up in mid-2009. By Q1 2010 they had funded three companies and had several more in various stages of due diligence with a line up of companies waiting to present. With sponsors from the accounting, legal and banking sectors they are already a well rounded as well as enthusiastic group.

The meeting I attended featured two emerging companies with smart technologies built into tangible products with large potential markets in Canada and the U.S. They have the capability to create new manufacturing and engineering jobs in Canada and develop world class products. The company presentations were just as impressive as the dedication of the angel network's organizing committee. Engaging in discussions with them on what they could do with access to capital and how they could in future access the greater capital pools available in the public markets was a stimulating experience. We built CNSX to support such people and we're looking forward to their future successes.

Pure Trading

Before getting to the trading results for March, I want to take a moment to update readers on a couple of major developments on the Pure Trading front. As hinted at for the last several months, we are finally at the stage where we are integrating new aggressive, high volume, liquidity providers into the Pure Trading community. Order volumes have started to pick up materially in the last week, but there is much, much more to come on this front. In conjunction with the arrival of these new players to the Canadian market, we announced the implementation of a new fee schedule designed to deliver something for all of our customers:

- ◆ A major reduction in fees: “take” fees for stocks trading for both above and below a dollar are reduced by 32% and 85% respectively.
- ◆ Simplicity: fees are the same regardless of listing exchange.
- ◆ Fairness: the “make” and “take” fees are identical for all firms regardless of the volumes traded on Pure Trading.
- ◆ Responsiveness and competition: these changes respond to feedback received from the trading community over the last several months, and are designed to equally deliver the benefits of multiple marketplace competition to all participants.

Details of the new fees are as follows:

For TSX and TSX-V listed securities:

Fees and rebates for the trading of TSX- and TSX-V listed securities (including rights and warrants) will be as follows:

Securities Trading for $1.00 and above (per share)

Fees to Take Liquidity	$0.0025
------------------------	----------

Rebates for Providing Liquidity:	$0.0020
----------------------------------	----------

Securities Trading for less than $1.00 (per share)

Fees to Take Liquidity	$0.0004
------------------------	----------

Rebates for Providing Liquidity:	$0.0001
----------------------------------	----------

Trades occurring in the market-on-open facility will have each side designated as active or passive, according to time priority, and will either be charged a fee or earn a rebate on the same terms as in the continuous auction market.

For TSX- and TSX-V listed debentures or notes:

Debentures or Notes (per $1,000 Par Value)

Fees to Take Liquidity	$0.09
------------------------	--------

Rebates for Providing Liquidity	$0.07
---------------------------------	--------

No other changes to our access fees or miscellaneous charges were implemented.
